KINGSTON

KINGSTON'S NEWEST ATTRACTION

S.S. Keewatin

Built in 1907 and owned by CP Rail, S.S. Keewatin is the oldest surviving Edwardian-era passenger steamship in the world. These ships were once a common sight on the Great Lakes, with hundreds of vessels like the S.S. Keewatin carrying passengers and cargo. When others were retired and scrapped during the 1960s, the Keewatin was saved.

Thanks to extensive preservation work, a visit aboard the Keewatin is like stepping back in time, with its original fixtures, artifacts and working technology.

THE EXPERIENCE

The S.S. Keewatin officially opened in May 2024 as one of Kingston's most iconic cultural attractions.

Visitors will explore a Keewatin exhibit before embarking on guided tours of the ship. Guided tours run from May to November at set times.
